zoe.nebraska.feldman@gmail.com www.zoenebraska.com (443)562-3707 A trained and passionate actor, filmmaker, intimacy coordinator, and production coordinator with an appetite for supporting stories that move us to take better care of the environment, ourselves, and each other. Especially the freaky stories, and the funny ones.

GOAL

My goal as an intimacy professional is to encourage and advocate for agency in rehearsals and performances so artists feel safe and empowered to meet the director's vision without compromising their boundaries. I do this by prioritizing consent-based practices in rehearsals, teaching actors and directors boundary practice tools, and by using a desexualized and de-loaded process to create culturally competent choreography with detailed documentation procedures. While sharing this work, I have noticed that young artists are especially fearful of harming their peers in the process of art-making. By providing tools and language that artists can bring with them to future processes, I empower them to make every room an environment where they can respect others and be respected, hold themselves and others accountable, and enter bravely into vulnerability,
